Figure 4. Correlation of population-level mean membership proportions. Each plot, based on the proportions inferred in Figure 3, shows the populations with the highest correlation of membership proportions (up to 20 populations, if the number of populations with a high value of the correlation is large). The name of a plotted population starts at the value of the correlation coefficient.