Sociological Practice Association

JEDNOTA PRESS

1011 Rosedale Avenue, Middletown, Pennsylvania 17057

The Clinical Sociology Review is published by Jednota Press, in association with the Sociological Practice Association, a professional organization of clinical and applied sociologists. Abstracts of all articles appear in Sociological Abstracts and selected abstracts appear in Social Work Research and Abstracts

Clinical sociology involves the creation of new social systems as well as the intervention in existing ones for purposes of assessment and/or change. Clinical sociologists are humanistic scientists who are multi-disciplinary in approach. They engage in planned social change efforts by focusing on one system level (e.g. interpersonal, small group, organization, community, international), but they do so from a sociological frame of reference.

Clinical Sociology Review publishes articles, essays, and research reports concerned with clinical uses of sociological theory, findings, or methods, which demonstrate how clinical practice at the individual, small group, large organization, or social system level contributes to the development of theory, or how theory may be used to bring about change. Articles may also be oriented to the teaching of clinical sociology or the practice of it.

A new quarterly journal, Sociological Practice: A Journal of Clinical and Applied Sociology, will replace the Clinical Sociology Review beginning in March, 1999. For Guidelines for Authors of the new journal consult page 113
